State Legislatures Convening for 2013 Legislative Sessions

As 2013 kicks off into full swing, most state legislatures will be reconvening for their 2013 legislative sessions. In January, 42 state legislatures are assembling, including Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Texas, Virginia and Wisconsin. Four states - Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon and Alabama - plan to resume their legislative sessions in February. Florida legislators head back to work in March and Louisiana legislatures open in April. California and Maine began their 2013 legislative session in December 2012 and plan to work throughout the year.

The NATA State Advocacy Network is working with MultiState Associates on state and local issues, and has provided the network with an easy access chart containing more information about state legislature dates, governors and members of the state assemblies.
