State and National Legislatures Gearing Up For 2013 Legislative Sessions – Voice Your Industry Needs Through NATA’s State Advocacy Network

Aviation businesses are confronted with a host of local, state and national issues, including airport and land use, security, taxation, aircraft noise and emissions, and other priorities that arise. NATA’s State Advocacy Network (SAN) is composed of volunteers from each state that play an important role in the association’s efforts to stimulate and encourage greater involvement among its members. SAN’s goal is to build a strong network to defeat unwarranted policies at every level of government. The network’s website has been used as a platform to gain awareness and support for issues facing members and their businesses, and it provides news and updates on ongoing legislation.

If your business or state is experiencing industry problems that require the association’s support or assistance, to view a list of SAN volunteers, or if you hear of problems that may arise and need more information, contact the State Advocacy Network via email at SAN@nata.aero or by calling (800) 808-6282.
