Wisconsin Governor Declares Aviation Week at AirVenture

Wisconsin Governor Scott Walker recently signed a proclamation declaring the week of July 28th through August 3rd as "Aviation Week." The proclamation coincides with the EAA's AirVenture in Oshkosh, WI. According to the Wisconsin Department of Transportation, aviation and airports across the state generate $7 billion annually in economic activity and support 90,900 jobs. "General aviation and local airports connect communities and businesses across the state," said Thomas L. Hendricks, President and CEO of the National Air Transportation Association. "NATA and our member companies across Wisconsin applaud Governor Walker's acknowledgement of general aviation as a vital resource to the state's competitiveness and growth."
